

FALES INSANE?

Mother Tells of Injuries Received in Childhood.

Medical Testimony that His Mind is Disordered.

Day of the Trial of the Boy-Slayer of Cashier Haydon.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

SPRING, N. J., June 2.—The third day of trial of sixteen-year-old Robert Alden for the murder of cashier Haydon in the hallway of the Potter Bleaching Company, at Mulberry street April 30 last, opened this morning before Judge Deane in the Essex county court of oyer and terminer, with John Haydon, a companion of the accused on the witness stand.

Despite the excessive heat there was a big crowd of spectators, many of whom were men. Fales occupied his seat alongside counsel, Judge Henry and Lawyer Frank Berners, and his mother sat behind him.

Young Judge testified that he had known Alden intimately for two years. The evening of April 30 he saw Fales three times—at 7.30, 10.30 and 11.15, when they went to the witness stand.

The witness asked Fales: "Did you hear Haydon was robbed to-day?"

Fales replied: "Yes, I always thought of something like that would happen to him, because he always was so careless about money."

A couple of weeks before the murder Fales told the witness about going to Boston, the witness and Fales went together to the church of prayer the Sunday following the murder and afterwards went rowing. At no time did Fales appear to be excited.

The witness said that Fales had been in the act of reading half-time novels.

Mrs. Harriett Fales, the mother of the accused boy, was the next witness. She is a mother, middle-aged woman with a sorrowful face. She was dressed in mourning.

She began her testimony by saying that she had been a widow since Oct. 20, 1891, when her husband committed suicide.

She had been married eighteen years and then children, all of whom were alive.

When he was about three years old, she testified, Alden had a fall on a stone injuring his head.

About two years ago he was again injured by a fall from a tree, but did not receive any serious injuries.

On the morning of April 30, Mrs. Fales saw Alden at breakfast, after which he left the house with the ostensible purpose of going to school.

Towards 11 o'clock he returned home and asked when his dinner would be ready.

When she told him it was not ready, he went up to his room and came down a few minutes later with a pistol.

He fired a shot, which struck Alden in the head, and he fell.

The witness continued: "I then asked him if he got the money, and he replied that he had earned it."

When he finished dinner he went out of the house with a younger brother, and came back at 7.30 o'clock that night.

Even then he did not appear excited.

Soon after that I asked him if he had heard that Mr. Haydon had been robbed and killed.

He replied that he had read it in an evening paper, which his brother gave him.

Fales then testified that his son was excited to the reading of half-time novels.

When she was asked if she had any conversation with Alden, she said, "I would hardly contain all the news in his room."

At the time of his father's suicide the witness said, Alden had done something for which she reprimanded him, and he was in a bad mood for several days. He then returned to school.

On Monday morning she found a bottle of cyanide in the boy's bureau drawer. It was sealed in a compartment for two weeks.

The witness then gave testimony as to the death of her husband by landmines in a Belmont avenue saloon in October, showing that he was of a morose disposition, and had threatened to commit suicide for some time.

Assistant Prosecutor Hood cross-examined Fales.

Fales said that Alden was sent to Vermont when he was twelve years old and returned there two years.

When he returned to New York, he went to work in Clark's factory in Newark.

He then left to go into the employ of the Bleaching Company for two weeks.

On April 30, he left his position and went to work for his father.

While Alden was working he always gave his mother his earnings, reserving only a small portion for himself. He was always a good boy, and was sick only once in his life, when he was five or six years old.

The night of Haydon's murder Mrs. Fales called up until 10.50 o'clock waiting for him. He came home some minutes after 11 o'clock and did not get up until 10 o'clock the following morning.

Mrs. Fales's testimony was given in a clear and concise manner. Fales appeared to be much interested, and he kept his eyes on his mother while she was on the witness stand.

Mrs. Nellie Mortimer, of 122 John street, and Mrs. John Chisholm, of 321 Sixth street, who testified that they knew Fales and met him at Haydon's saloon on the Monday following the murder, were also on the witness stand.

They were asked to go riding with him. They refused the invitation. Fales did not appear to be excited at the time.

Henry N. Drayton, an insanity expert on several occasions, the County Jail, examined the boy and was of the opinion that his mind was disordered.

There were constitutional cerebral and organic defects which indicated vital derangement. The relation between the bodily and mental was unhealthy.

The doctor had found that the boy was really impenetrable and indifferent. He was unable to tell him to know about the crime, and he did not seem to realize the enormity of the act.

The examination, Dr. Drayton said, had never before been called upon to give expert testimony in a court.

The examination of Fales, May 28, led to the conclusion that the boy was a product of pubescent mania. Fales might have been committed to an asylum.

WALL ST. STOCK REPORTS.

Trading Led Off with a Break in Union Pacific.

Denial that Government Is to Draw Gold from New York Banks.

A Million in Gold for Export Saturday—A Break Market.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

WALL STREET, Thursday, June 2.—The stock market disappointed the bears this morning. Union Pacific was broken from 40 to 38 1/2, on a rumor that Sidney Dillon, who has been critically ill, had died.

The general list yielded only fractionally and soon rallied. Business was quite moderate, and in a majority of instances the changes were half a point or even less.

The industrial group was noticeably firm. Distilling and Cattle Feeding crossed 40, and National Lined Oil rose from 34 to 34 1/2.

Sales up to noon were only 57,000 shares.

It was announced that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had taken $500,000 gold for shipment to-morrow, further engagements are looked for, foreign exchange being strong and bills of all kinds scarce.

In regard to the statements that Secretary Foster intended to draw gold from the New York banks for the purpose of strengthening the government gold reserve, it is said on good authority that nothing of the kind is contemplated.

Officials of the Northern Pacific Company say: "No issue of bonds of any kind is contemplated. No part of the floating debt will mature before next September. It is secured by ample collateral. The floating debt has been considerably reduced from the amount stated in the annual report. The amount given in the annual report was about $1,000,000."

At the Northwest meeting to-day it was expected that the usual dividend of 3 per cent. on the common and 1 1/2 per cent. on the preferred would be declared. The surplus was over $1,000,000.

The Bank of England rate of discount remains unchanged at 2 per cent. The bank called $200,000 for the week, and its proportion of reserve to liabilities is 44.75 per cent., against 44.43 per cent. last week.

The following report by the directors of the Mint will give the following interesting comparison of the money in circulation:
